

YOUR SPEAKERS

Jessica Norgard

Acting Deputy General Counsel (Communications, IP & Commercial team)
nbn

After a number of years in private practice at Ashurst in Sydney, Jessica made the leap to “in-house” in 2017, and is currently the Acting Deputy General Counsel in the Communications, IP & Commercial team at nbn.

As the title suggests, Jessica practices mainly in the areas of intellectual property and the Australian Consumer Law (plus a plethora of other subjects depending on what day it is!)

Jessica is also the Immediate Past Chair of the NSW Young Lawyers Communications, Entertainment and Technology Law Committee.

Although she doesn't have much of it, Jessica spends most of her spare time training for competitive dance events, eating dumplings and watching musical theatre.

Ronny Chen

Barrister
Frederick Jordan Chambers

Ronny Chen is a barrister at Frederick Jordan Chambers. Ronny practices mainly in civil and commercial litigation, as well as insolvency-related proceedings. Ronny was born and raised in China and came to Australia when he was 16 years old as an international student. Ronny speaks Chinese at home.

Magan Goh

Lawyer
Corrs Chambers Westgarth

Magan started as a seasonal clerk in Corrs' Brisbane office and continued on as a graduate in the Brisbane office until the end of 2017, when she made the move to the big smoke (i.e. Sydney).

Having always had her sights set on being a transactional corporate lawyer, Magan now practices in the Financial Sponsors Group at Corrs, and was recently announced as the 2019 winner of Lawyers Weekly '30 under 30' for the financial services sector.

Magan enjoys going to her figure skating lessons in her down time, as well as reading detective and crime novels.